The one who brought us to the earth
By giving birth
The one who conceals numerous pain
Yet she firmly remains
As she prioritizes us as main

A special gift that a human receives
Who dedicates her life to his wish;
And works day and night without any shift

She might taunt you
But never meant to hurt you
Yet she alerts you to revert in your real state

Though distress hits your door
A small nap in her lap
Drives all those discomfort
With the shower of her selfless love

A saint in disguise
Who comprehends our deeds wise
Through her single eye sight
To make our life bright

Dilemma

It arises as an attraction but unfolds multiple distractions

It appears to be a divine feeling but realized as a dreadful suffering

The words uttered soothes the heart but disturbs the mind

It may give you a special attention but it is all for an indefinite duration

Eventually the reason is confusion in perceiving attraction and affection
Which is enclosed as Infatuation
