

A REALISATION

I was the same
I was the same as I used to be.
But then came in a realisation,
A realisation!
A realisation of trying to be someone,
for someone.
Someone in a lost crowd keeps on smiling whole heartedly.
But that wasn't just a smile,
It was rather a realisation.
A realisation that goodness surrounds us.
That smile was all about priceless happiness.
And about a realisation.
A realisation that the same me is not the new me.
