

I am a Tree

Ansulika Paul

Guest Lecturer and Research Scholar

B.R.P. Govt. Polytechnic

Dhantari, Chhattisgarh

Deep into the eternity of the earth,
Extends my roots of existence.
Grounded, firm and reinforced,
By the realm of my inheritance.

I spread my cosmos,
Up to the sky.
Reaching the canopy of the blue umbrella,
My branches whirl high.

I stand tall, strong and stout,
A cover for many and an enduring aid to crowd.
I am a home to the world,
A house of peace all around.

I bear fruits of truth and bliss,
Feeding the poor and rich alike.
I know no hypocrisy and pride,
Because I am grounded I rise, I rise and I rise.