

A Day's Life

Gowri H
M.Phil in English
School of Letters
M.G University, Kottayam
Kerala

Today - I was born, opened my eyes to this world

Today – I know my final day too..

One day of life – from dawn to dusk

Is not enough for me

For the rest of the world – I am a beautiful flower

Blossomed to make you happy

But have you ever thought of my fate?

HE has been unfair to me

A day of life is not enough

To experience this world

Want to see more sunrises than just one

To embrace the dewdrops

Glittering on my petals

To enjoy the kissings of butterflies
I have not yet enjoyed the rainfalls
Nor did I see the star-filled skies
I have not seen my elder siblings
Neither my younger ones, nor do they either
For A day of life is not enough for me..

For you, sunsets are the time of joy and love

But for me it's time to die..

You embrace me as symbol of joy

But me weeping inside

My tears you name honey..

One will realize the virtues he left behind-

Only at the dusk of his day..

You go to sleep bidding "good night"

For you tomorrow is certain

But I do bidding Good - Bye

For me only today is certain

Since my dusk is reaching fast

I have something to say
Enjoy every second- life is short
Embrace the world- life is beautiful
Enliven the fellows-Life is love
For me a day is not enough
But I am thankful- atleast I got one...