

Embalming Grace

Dr. S. Anita Evelyn

Thinking of you makes me wonder
Of all good things I've surrendered
You are my All, I realize and praise
A 1000 reason for every grace
Many a times I've been away
Swimming in the miry clay
Dirty attire adorned I cry – Yet
Smiling Thou did'st hug and smile
How can I ever forget your mercies Lord?
Why art Thou endowed so with love?
Its amazing when you hold me tight
When I cry looking at my plight- Yet
I'm just a human insane
At every step I do refrain...
Your mercies I still do need
But 'am not worthy for your deed
O what can I do O my Lord?
Help me always with your grace...
Sans your mercy I will die at every phase...

Bio-note

Dr S. Anita Evelyn, is an Associate Professor in the Department of English (Science & Humanities), at R.M.K. Engineering College (affiliated to Anna University, Chennai), Chennai. She has co-authored a book titled 'Vocabulary-Play & Practice', published research papers in National & International Journals and has also presented papers at National & International Conferences. Her poems have been published in The Criterion – An International Journal in English, Taj Mahal Review, and The Journal of English Language & Literary Studies (TJELLS), ROOTS - an International Journal of Multidisciplinary Researches and International Journal of Emerging Technologies and Innovative Research (JETIR).

She has been bestowed with Bharat Vikas Award 2018 for her loyalty, diligence, and outstanding performance in the field of Dialects of English Language. She received this honour on the occasion of 'National Seminar on Intellectuals' Social Responsibility' held on December 01, 2018 at Odisha. Shri. Panchanan Kanungo (Former Finance Minister, Govt. of Odisha) presented the award.