Living a life in search of you
Pains and obstacles, a toilsome road.
Wealth and fame, a mere comparison
Much worthless as compared to you.
Treasuring you indeed is futile
You come, you go. a self-made choice.
Divine goodness and virtues
As much interlinked to you.
A destiny for the destitute,
A luck for the fortunate,
A wish for you in all my prayers,
But prayers not meant for me.
Fulfilment of those which brings in
Utmost happiness to me.
