

Dispatched

T.S.Sridevi

M.Phil. Research Scholar
The American College

A quake in my heart as I pulled out the roots which was deeply buried inside the core of my heart.

The veins were interwoven with the roots of vain overwhelmed with acute pain when the roots were devastated.

Threatened to uproot it further however it has to be requited for the vengeance of love which has impaired all the cells.

When it was about to vandalise
Life and Death disputed over the dispatch
The vitality of the labour of love
Hence rescued the intensely rooted pain.